

THE 5 WORST TEXTING MISTAKES

ROBBIE HEMINGWAY

THE 5 WORST TEXTING MISTAKES

The 5 WORST Things A Guy Can Do With His Phone

There are some things you should just never do while texting a woman, and I mean never. These are universal don'ts that will absolutely NOT get you laid by any means. Some of you will read these and think, "Damn, I do a lot of these." That's okay, that's the entire point of reading this book. What you don't do is half the battle. If you can refrain from shooting yourself in your foot or making her annoyed with you, you can much more easily go from the plant and fertilize stage to the smash stage. Follow these rules and you'll be charming her panties off in no time.

#1. Be A Pest

Women hate that. Then why do we do it? Because we want to feel important. When you were a little kid, what did you do if you didn't get something you wanted? Did you cause a scene? If you did, then you know what I'm talking about.

We've all seen the annoying kid at the store who keeps calling his mom when he doesn't get what he wants: "Mom! . . . Mom! . . . Mom!" then throws a tantrum if she doesn't give him the attention or item he wants.

Well, that's what you look like.

Would Leonardo DiCaprio be a pest to women? Hell, no. Leo doesn't do that, so why do you think it's okay if you do?

No one likes a person who is always available. Who would you rather see: a heart specialist that you have to wait three months for because he's completely booked, or one who says, "Yeah, swing by any time. I'll check you out."

THE 5 WORST TEXTING MISTAKES

Busy = important. Can you call up Donald Trump any time during the day and get a sit-down with him? No, because he's busy being important!

If you respond right away to a woman's text, what does that say about you to her? If she were to ask you to hang out, would you respond in a millisecond asking her what time she wants you to pick her up and where she'd like to go? That's the worst text you can send.

How Often Are You Texting Her?

If you had the same Victoria's Secret model texting you all day, every day, would you get tired of it? Think about it. If you can't help it, then leave your phone somewhere else for a few hours!

What You Should Be Doing

Respond only when she texts you. She's not a sounding board for you to play out your thoughts and emotions through text.

Here's the sad part: Although you might think she doesn't see your texts, she does. She's choosing not to respond to you because you're being a pest.

#2. Over-Complimenting A Woman

You think it works? That's stupid! When has it ever? And why not? Because you've put her on a pedestal. You're either a fan, or have a friend mentality.

Celebrities treat people the way people treat them. If you act like a fan, they treat you like a fan, beneath their level. If they meet someone who approaches them like an equal, then they respect them as an equal.

THE 5 WORST TEXTING MISTAKES

Which level are you approaching women on? Chances are you're approaching them like you're a fan and they're a celebrity. Why do you think celebrities always hang out with other celebrities? Because they treat each other like regular people.

How many times do you call a woman "beautiful, gorgeous, amazing, perfect"? Wrong, wrong, wrong. Stop it.

Here's a trick to use if you have to compliment them. It's the "Not Gonna Lie" trick. Instead of texting, "You're absolutely beautiful," send "Not gonna lie, you're kind of good looking. J" It tells her you're interested, but you don't have a big head about it because you only said "kind of."

No one is perfect, and girls know that more than men. They look at their bodies daily and are always unhappy about some aspect of it, so if you tell them they're perfect or any other lame compliment, they'll know you're lying and just trying to suck up to them.

If You're Texting A Woman Way Out Of Your League

If you got a woman's number somehow and she's way better looking than you are, don't compliment her at all. She already knows she's a 10. She's already got every single guy texting her, offering her the world. Don't be one of them.

You have to play the asshole game even if you're not an asshole. Get used to it, it will be your only saving grace.

Never be impressed with anything she says. Never. If she told you she just won a million dollars, instead of texting the usual "OMG, that's amazing!!!" respond with "Not bad, maybe next time it'll be two. ;)"

THE 5 WORST TEXTING MISTAKES

You always want a woman making the effort to impress. If any little thing amazes you, then you have a problem.

#3. Texting A Woman When She's Not Responding

Don't feel dumb because you do it. The reason is because we're hard-wired as humans to keep reaching out to the same person if they don't respond.

Example: You're at a fair and see someone you know. You call out their name and they don't hear you. Do you stop calling them because they didn't respond after your first shout? No, you shout louder.

This is why men continue to text the same "Hi, how are you." Most of the time you don't get a response because what you're writing is lame. You're in a dog fight with dozens of other dogs for the same piece of meat. Do you really think there isn't another guy out there who is texting anything better than "Hi, beautiful"?

If you're texting her lame stuff, she's not going to respond to you. She's going to respond to the guy who engages her and is wittier than the other guys, a guy who makes the wheels in her mind start turning.

The first thing you need to do is stop texting her the same boring stuff. Make sure what you send her is interesting. If a woman was texting you boring things, you wouldn't respond, so why do you think it's okay for you to do it?

Most of the time, the reason you're not getting a response is because what you're texting isn't engaging enough to earn a response from her. It's because you're sending close-ended texts instead of open ones.

THE 5 WORST TEXTING MISTAKES

#4. Open Vs. Closed-Ended Texting

Ever wonder why she seems bored when you text her? Do you get one-word responses? Here's a typical text you might get:

You: Do you like rock music?

Her: Yeah.

You: Me, too.

Her: (silence)

This is called sending close-ended texting. Close-ended questions can be answered with a yes or no. Open-ended questions demand that the person answering give more information than a yes or no. Here are some examples:

Close-ended: Did you like the movie?

Open-ended: What did you think of the movie?

Close-ended: Do you like baseball?

Open-ended: What are some of your favorite sports?

Close-ended: Did you have a good weekend?

Open-ended: What did you do over the weekend?

Every time you text a girl, ask yourself, "Is this an open-ended or close-ended question?" If the answer is close-ended, think of how you could rewrite it. This will take care of the problem.

#5. Waiting Too Long To Make A Move

This is the one fatal mistake men make all the time. It's what gets you put in the friend-zone. Typically it happens because a man wants to be absolutely sure that a woman is into him before he makes a move so he doesn't look like an idiot. But if you don't make a move in time, she'll think you just want her to be your friend. This is what you don't want to have happen.

THE 5 WORST TEXTING MISTAKES

Reasons why men wait too long:

She Hasn't Given You An Absolute Sign

Women don't know what they want, that's why they're always changing their minds. This is why you cannot wait for a clear signal from them that they want you. Real men know what they want and they take it. Women want to have a man who has that trait, not someone who wallows around and is unsure about himself. When you watch movies about a bad ass, do you ever see them think about whether they want to get punched in the face, or do they just kick ass and take names? That's the approach you need to take with women. When you assume in your mind that she will like you, you approach her like she will want you. Women respond to that. When you think like this, you're much less likely to wait for an absolute sign and instead you will go for it bad-ass style.

Have you ever been in the situation where you've put in tons of work with a woman and she meets someone and immediately bangs him and stops talking to you? It's because that guy took what he wanted, he didn't wait around for a go-ahead text. That rarely happens, so don't count on it.

Go for the kill, and if she rejects you, move on to the next one. But if you've used everything you've learned in this book, you should get her without much trouble at all. If she still rejects you, at least you'll know there and then instead of waiting six months to make a move. At that point you will have been well into the friend-zone and she definitely isn't hooking-up with you. Save yourself the six months of failure and go for the kill.

THE 5 WORST TEXTING MISTAKES

You Feel Like You Haven't Flirted Enough

A classic mistake that can easily be fixed. You don't want to ask her on a date because you're not sure if she's attracted to you. This means you haven't made use of the "fertilize" method enough. Again, whether or not she's 100% into you doesn't matter. A woman will never be sure right away, that's why you text with her – to shape her thoughts and emotions about you in the way that you want them to be.

Start flirting, even if it's a winky face here or there. Do something that makes her know you're attracted to her. Plant the seed that you want to bang her. I can't tell you how many women I've heard say, "I dunno, he never made a move, so I assumed he just wanted to be friends." If only you had planted that seed in her mind.

So many guys could have gotten laid but never did because they felt they hadn't flirted enough, when in actuality the woman already wanted him.

Flirt often, and flirt a lot. Any chance you get. Women like knowing someone wants them. It makes them feel special.

How To Know When It's The Right Time To Make A Move

You should be flirting all the time with her, fertilizing the seed you planted so she's always thinking of sex and you in the same thought. Don't let her believe that you've lost interest. You'll no doubt be texting her a lot, so it's critical that you don't turn your relationship into a friendship. Remember, you always want to have the power in a relationship, so you need to always make her feel like you want her.

Caution: There's a big difference between flirting and complimenting:

Flirting: "Damn, your legs look so sexy in that picture."

Over-complimenting: "OMG you're perfect."

THE 5 WORST TEXTING MISTAKES

When she gives you the slightest opening, make the move. Examples of texts that provide an opening:

“Thank you :) I thought you’d like it.” (after you send a flirting text)

“Good to hear you like it.” (when you compliment her on a picture)

“Yeah, our pictures do look good.”

“I’m so bored, I have nothing to do.”

“I don’t know what I’m doing this weekend.”

“I had the most stressful day at work.”

I hope you’ve planted and fertilized, because once you get a text that gives you an opening to smash, you better take it. These don’t come around all the time, so take advantage of when you get one because you don’t know if there will be a next time. If you habitually miss out on these opportunities, she will stop giving them to you altogether.